Seven brides for seven mail-order husbands romance collection : a newspaper ad for husbands brings a wave of men to a small Kansas town

by Cynthia Hickey

"1866 dawns dark and hopeless on the small town of Tuttle Springs set in the Flint Hills of Kansas. The War Between the States took most of its men ... and never returned them. A group of the town's single and widowed women join wits and decide they'll advertise for husbands. But they won't accept just any riffraff. The men will need to audition and be interviewed by the women. But the best laid plans go awry as both the curious and the serious flock to town to witness the spectacle.

How will seven of the town's finest women make the best practical choices when their hearts cry out to be loved?"--Publisher's description

The umbrella lady : a novel

by V. C. Andrews

"Left on the train platform of some strange village, eight-year-old Saffron Faith Anders is certain her father will return shortly, just like he promised. She holds out hope as the hour grows late and the station sets to close. She clings to her suitcase like a life raft. When a peculiar old woman carrying a large umbrella approaches and inquires about her situation, Saffron doesn't immediately trust the imposing do-gooder, but eventually does agree to rest at her house while they wait for her father together. Saffron's stay was supposed to be for a few minutes, hours at most. But confined to a house not unlike one Hansel and Gretel might have encountered, Saffron will undergo months-and then years-of transformation at the hands of the Umbrella Lady. Oneminute grandmotherly and the next a scolding schoolmarm, the woman cuts Saffron's hair to the nub, burns the clothes in her suitcase, and pretends that the photo of a young girl hanging on her bedroom wall is just a stock image that came with the frame. When mysterious letters arrive from Saffron's father, saying he has started a new family and will send for her shortly, hope returns to her heart. Still, as is the fate of all young protagonists in the world of V.C. Andrews, Saffron will learn that those who most claim to care for you will often hurt you the worst..."
